Second Front Is Mentioned By World Leaders In Talk With Congressmen

WASHINGTON, June 25.—(P)—President Roosevelt and Prime Minister Churchill of Britain gave congressional leaders today a 40-minute review of "the world situation," touching on the British defeat in North Africa and the opening of a second front in Europe, and the legislators called the survey "very satisfactory and very encouraging."

Speaker Rayburn told reporters that the Libyan phase of the war was covered "in some detail" and that a second front was mentioned "incidentally." That subject, he added, "always comes up, of course."

Churchill's meeting with leaders from both Republican and Democratic ranks on Capitol Hill started off a round of conferences which set the day apart as one of the most important since the prime minister flew the Atlantic a week ago to confer with the president a second time.

Congressional Conference

The president and prime minister followed up the congressional conference with an appointment with the Pacific War Council.

None of the legislative leaders would go into details of the conversations with the two United Nations leaders, Rayburn remarking that a great many of these were of a military nature.

The opening of a second battle front in Europe has been a subject of widespread speculation, speculation which has received official encouragement at the White House, in connection with the Churchill visit. The congressional leaders did not disclose whether any concrete decisions had been reached on this point.

Informal Luncheon

The war council was invited to the white house not only for a formal discussion apparently designed to help integrate Pacific operations with those in Europe but also to an informal luncheon. Secretary of State Hull and undersecretary Wells were also on the luncheon list.

Afterward, the president and Mr. Churchill arranged the separate party with Secretary Hull and the British ambassador, Lord Halifax.

The congressional delegation was made up of Vice-President Wallace; Chairman Connally (D-Tex.) of the Senate Foreign Relations Committee; Senator McNary of Oregon, the Republican leader; Speaker Rayburn; House Democratic Leader McCormack; House Republican Leader Martin of Massachusetts; Chairman Bloom (D-N.Y.) of the Foreign Affairs Committee, and Rep. Eaton (R-N.J.), a high ranking member of this committee.

New Corporation Is Asked For

WASHINGTON, June 25.—(P)—Creation of a $500,000,000 war petroleum corporation was urged today by Secretary of the Interior Ickes to prevent "probably unnecessary stringent rationing orders and perhaps actual shortages of petroleum or some of its products for direct military use."

He told the house banking committee that, under the terms of the legislation, the corporation would be charged with the specific duty of causing:

1. Delivery of petroleum and petroleum products into shortage areas to meet military and essential civilian demands.
2. The expansion and most efficient use of petroleum transportation facilities.
3. The production of the necessary amounts of the specific petroleum products required for the war program and to meet essential civilian demands.
4. The maintenance of adequate reserves of petroleum or such petroleum products as are of strategic importance in quality or as to location.
5. The return, upon such terms and conditions as will protect the public interest, to the natural underground reservoirs or other disposition of petroleum products purchased by the corporation for the purpose of assuring the production of other petroleum products.

Judge Gantt Charges Leedy 'Is A Burden'

Says He's Long On Parade And Short On Work

JEFFERSON CITY, June 25.—(P)—Judge Ernest S. Gantt charged today that one of his colleagues, Judge C. A. Leedy, Jr., has done only two thirds of his job on the State Supreme Court.

"He has been a very great burden" to fellow jurists, Gantt declared, and cited records to show Leedy failed to handle 70 of the 212 cases assigned to him in his nine years on the bench.

Leedy's term is out this year and he probably will ask reelection under the non-partisan court plan in November.

Gantt's charges were made in a letter to John F. Rhodes, president of the Missouri Bar Association, and started a new skirmish in the continuing court row which began with the recent suppression of two Gantt opinions as "scandalous, scurrilous and impertinent."

Short On Work

"In an opinion I made the statement that Leedy 'is long on parade and very, very short on work and labor,'" Gantt wrote Rhodes. The quotation was from one of his opinions which Leedy and three other judges voted to suppress.

"Other judges and commissioners have been compelled to write the opinions in many cases assigned to him in regular order, some of those cases having been held up from one to three years because of his disinclination to labor," Gantt continued.

"In other words, he has been a burden to carry during the nine years he has been on the bench. All of the active members of the bar know this condition."

Reply To Statement

Gantt said he made the statement in reply to "a statement (Leedy) made about me in an opinion written by him." The Leedy opinion to which he referred must have been withdrawn since it never has appeared in court records.

Gantt listed citations from the "Southwest Reporter"—legal publication in which all Missouri opinions appear—to show Leedy's record.

He said Leedy has been assigned 212 cases in his court career and wrote opinions in 142 of them—which "leaves 70 of the cases assigned to him which were reassigned and written by other judges and commissioners."

Furthermore, anyone reading the opinions written by him will notice that he selected the easy cases. Thus the cold record shows that he has been a very great burden to carry during the nine years he has been on the bench."

Opening Signal Corps School

WASHINGTON, June 25.—(P)—The war department announced today a midwestern signal corps school would be opened July 1 at Camp Crowder, Missouri, with a full training program in army communication.

Major Gen. Walter E. Prosser will be commandant and Lt. Col. E. A. Allen will be executive officer.

Approximately 150 buildings have been constructed for living and administrative quarters and classrooms. They are designed to accommodate a capacity of 2,500 students. The instructional staff will include about 300 officers, both commissioned and non-commissioned specialists.

Opening of the Missouri post will provide the signal corps with two schools for all-round training. The other is at Fort Monmouth, New Jersey, and now is designated as the eastern signal corps school.

Rhodes said the proposed conference had no connection with the bar association.

Well Known Young Sedalian In A Crash Near Eldon

Robert Reuter, Jr., 26, son of Mr. and Mrs. Robert Reuter, 121½ East Third street, was killed between 9:30 and 9:45 o'clock Wednesday night, in a car accident that occurred near Aurora Springs about two and one-half miles south of Eldon, on highway 54.

Robert Reuter, Jr.

Reuter and Russell Ream, also of Sedalia, in company with Miss Maude Rose Allee and Miss Mildred Apperson, of Eldon, were on their way from Eldon to the Bagwell farm, where they were going to dance at one of the resorts there.

Ream was driving, and Miss Allee was in the front seat with him. Reuter was with Miss Apperson, who is employed by the telephone company in Eldon, in the back seat.

Car Was Ahead

According to the report of the accident they came upon a car.

Freight Train Hits Automobile

Bryan Short, 1803 South Lamine avenue, received lacerations on his left hand and another over his right eye, about 9 o'clock this morning when the 1933 Plymouth coach he was driving, was struck by M. K. T. freight train No. 72, north bound at the Kentucky avenue crossing. Short was treated at the Bothwell hospital by Dr. A. L. Walters, and released to go to his home.

He had stopped at a grocery store just north of the crossing and started to drive away just before the train reached the crossing. The front part of the automobile was across the track and the front of the train engine hit the coupe just back of the right door whirling it around on the crossing. The glass in the windshield was broken out and it was from this that Short received his cuts.

The car was badly damaged. It is owned by Short's son, Donald, who also resides at 1803 South Lamine avenue.

H. J. Esser was the engineer, and R. R. Elton, fireman, both of Franklin and Harry Spillers, 1507 South Barrett avenue, this city, was conductor in charge of the train.

At the hospital it was necessary to take seven stitches in the laceration over Short's right eye.

Former PTA Head Pleads Innocent

KANSAS CITY, June 25.—(P)—Mrs. Althea Kopp, former president of the Kansas City Council of Parents and Teachers, pleaded innocent today to a federal indictment, charging entry into a bank with intent to commit a felony and the unauthorized withdrawal of $1,600 of the organization's funds.

Mrs. Kopp, 46, resigned as president of the Council of Parents and Teachers last January. She is free on a $2,000 bond.

Glider Base Officer Talks To Kiwanians

Took Members On Verbal Tour Of Huge Area

An intimate word picture of the activities around the new Sedalia Air Base, 18 miles west of here, was outlined in a talk by Robert Holloway, public relations director at the base, before the Sedalia Kiwanis club at its meeting in Bothwell hotel, Thursday noon.

The speaker took Kiwanians on a verbal tour of the air base, calling attention to the strict guard now in force about the location—guards who have been carefully chosen and trained for their work. Visitors are not allowed on the grounds unless they have business to transact.

One of the first impressions at the base is the great expanse of flat land, one of the reasons for the site selection by army engineers and air officials.

Hundreds At Work

At present, the speaker said, hundreds of carpenters are pounding and sawing away as rows of buildings take shape. Speed is the watchword in the construction of this base. Five complete barracks 100 feet long, twenty feet wide and thirteen feet high go up in a single day. Drilling apparatus is at work on three deep water wells. Overhead line-men are stringing miles of wire for electric current. Powerful road machinery and excavators are in operation.

If the weather is right more than a thousand workmen are busy. Later there may be four or even five thousand workers there.

When completed the base will be used as a training center for glider pilots. The part gliders have and are playing in the present war was commented upon by the speaker who indicated that Germany was well advanced in glider operations, but that America was fast catching up.

The school will be held at the National Guard Armory in Columbia starting at 10 o'clock in the morning with the program centering around the maneuvers which will be held in the afternoon. An explanatory session will be held in the Armory assembly room, followed by a study of the contour map of the maneuver area.

An open forum discussion will be held to which all officers are invited to take their problems and questions.

The maneuvers will begin at 1 o'clock in the afternoon and will be viewed by all officers and other personnel in attendance, but who are not participating.

Asks $10,000 Of Missouri Pacific

A damage suit for $10,000 was filed in circuit court this morning by Hugh Albin against Guy A. Thompson, trustee for the Missouri Pacific railroad company, asking for that amount, alleging damages by the death of his wife, Flora Albin, who died of injuries received when the car in which she was riding was struck by a Missouri Pacific passenger train at 5:47 o'clock February 10, 1942, in Holden.

According to the petition the car was crossing the railroad at a crossing on Main street in the city of Holden when struck.

European Theatre Is Opened For United States Forces; Nazis 60 Miles Into Egypt

Situation In Egypt Apparently Quickly Reaching A Showdown

BY ROGER D. GREEN
Associated Press War Editor

Axis invasion armies were rolling deep into Egypt today after a 60-mile advance from the Libyan frontier, while in Washington, President Roosevelt and Prime Minister Churchill gave leaders of congress a 40-minute review of the world situation which was termed "very satisfactory and very encouraging."

There was news, too, that the German assault upon Sevastopol, Russia's great Black sea fortress in the Crimea, was slackening because of terrific losses inflicted on the Nazi siege armies.

In Washington, Rep. Martin, House Republican leader, told newsmen that Churchill "indicated that Britain would hold and that there is no danger of losing Egypt and Suez."

Situation Critical

But the situation was undoubtedly critical as British imperial headquarters acknowledged that Field Marshal Rommel's armored columns had broken deep into Egypt after British troops fell back in heavy all-day fighting yesterday.

Amid this grave setback, a warning to Adolf Hitler of an impending allied "second front" in Europe came with the official announcement that a European theater of operations for U. S. armed forces has been formally established.

In itself, this does not mean that a new front has already been created.

The War Department said Maj. Gen. Dwight D. Eisenhower, recently assistant chief of staff in charge of the operations division, had been made commanding general.

Commander In Britain

Dispatches from London said Gen. Eisenhower had arrived in Britain and taken command of the European theater for American forces.

In Egypt, the situation was apparently fast nearing a showdown.

A bulletin from Cairo headquarters said powerful axis armored columns had driven south-east of Sidi Barrani, the farthest point of the Italian invasion in 1940, and implied that the invaders might have penetrated still deeper into the ancient land of the pharaohs.

The communiqué said British troops defending the Egyptian frontier had withdrawn from the main border defenses on a 25-mile line extending from Salom, on the Mediterranean coast, to Sidi Omar.

"Our forces engaged the enemy all day yesterday and inflicted

Truman Seeks To Cut Expenses

WASHINGTON, June 25.—(P)—A searching examination into the immediate need of a record-breaking $42,820,000,000 army appropriation was reported today by a senate committee under way as Senator Truman (D-Mo) announced he would seek to cut down any expenditures that did not appear to be fully justified at this time.

In a move regarded in some quarters as the first serious congressional questioning of huge military appropriations. Senator Truman told reporters he and the other members of an appropriations subcommittee were interested in determining the actual need of making available all of the amount in the house approved bill—the largest cash outlay ever proposed before the legislative body.

"I want the army to have every cent that it needs," the Missouri senator said, "but we are going to examine into every phase of this thing and if they are building up a big back-log of appropriation that won't be used for months or even years, I am going to move to cut some of them down."

Chairman Thomas (D-Okla) said he had insisted that Gen. George C. Marshall, army chief of staff, appear before the group personally for a general justification of the appropriation.

Plant Closes Down

WASHINGTON, June 25.—(P)—Designation of President Roosevelt as "supreme leader" of the United Nations war effort was urged in the senate today to replace what Senator Ellender (D-La) termed "the apparent apathy of British military leadership."

Asserting the axis forces are in "a dangerous position" as a result of the fall of Tobruk, Senator Ellender told the senate "something must be done before it is too late."

"We must designate a new leader," he asserted, "and place full decision in his hands. Such a leader must be acclaimed at once."

OTTAWA, June 25.—(P)—"Several complete squadrons" of the Royal Canadian air force are operating in the Alaskan islands area in defense of the northwest approaches to North America, Air Minister C. G. Power announced today.

"For security reasons it is not yet possible to disclose whether our squadrons have yet engaged the Japanese in actual combat," Power added in a statement.

Power's statement was the first disclosure that complete squadrons were in the Alaskan area. The squadrons, both fighters and bombers, are operating "in the closest harmony and cooperation with their United States comrades," Power said.

BOGOTA, Colombia, June 25.—(P)—The newspaper, El Espectador said today that a submarine has machine gunned and sunk a Colombian schooner killing six crewmen.

CHUNGKING, June 25.—(P)—With a force of its fighting planes doubling as bombers, the American Volunteer group has attacked Hankow, Japan's major inland base in occupied China, and sunk one Japanese warship and three transports.

An AVG communiqué announced today that other vessels probably were damaged and military establishments were blown up on Tuesday in the Flying Tigers' debut over Hankow China's greatest inland city.

WASHINGTON, June 25.—(P)—The navy announced today that enemy submarines had sunk two small patrol vessels off the Atlantic coast earlier this month with a total loss of twenty lives.

AFL Strikers Reject Offer

ST. LOUIS, June 25.—(P)—Striking A.F.L. machinists of 11 precision tool plants rejected a second compromise offer of a 10-cents-an-hour increase in pay after the War Labor Board last night ordered them to return to work.

The board indicated it had taken charge of the wage increase dispute but that no consideration would be given the strikers' side of the issue until they had resumed work.

A request was made of the board that it establish "proper wage scales" for the St. Louis tool industry to prevent further disputes and the shifting of workers for better wages.

Two other strikes developed during the day. At the Banner Iron Works 200 A.F.L. men walked out, and two score persons quit at the Edwin F. Guth company, makers of lighting fixtures and electrical equipment.

Strikers at the Guth company said they had no union affiliation but had asked an A.F.L. representative to assist them.

In calling upon the board to take jurisdiction, the C.I.O. council of machinists and tool and die makers denounced the strikers, declaring they have forgotten the "fallen boys of Bataan and Pearl Harbor."

The War Labor Board declared the strike was in violation of national labor union agreements for "no more strikes for the duration."

A.F.L. machinists are seeking a 40-cent-an-hour increase from the present minimum of $1.10 to $1.25.

Increase in wages is the sole factor involved in the strikes.

No Reference In Announcement On Opening Of Second Front

WASHINGTON, June 25.—(AP)—Major General Dwight D. Eisenhower has arrived in London and taken command of the European theater for American forces, it was announced today by the War Department, which defined a theater of operations as "an area where combat is in progress or will be."

Eisenhower, a native Texan and an armored force expert, went to his post in London from an assignment as chief of the operations division of the War Department's general staff.

The department spokesman who defined "theater of operations" explained that such a theater usually is divided into the combat or front line zone and the line of communications but added that "with air power so important there is little difference now between front and rear areas."

The brief announcement was made without reference to current speculation on the possibility of a second front in Europe.

Major General James E. Chaney has been in command of American forces in the British isles, and officials did not disclose his new status. Major General Russell P. Hartle remains in charge of American forces in Northern Ireland.

The communiqué, No. 229, said:

1. European theater:

Headquarters In London

"The War Department today announced the formal establishment of a European theater of operations for United States forces. Major General Dwight D. Eisenhower, formerly assistant chief of staff in charge of operations division, War Department general staff, has been designated as commanding general, European theater, with headquarters in London, England.

2. There is nothing to report from other areas."

In a statement by General Eisenhower on his arrival in England, which the War Department released, the new commander said "The formal establishment of a European theater is a logical step in coordinating the efforts of Great Britain and the United States."

"Six months ago the prime minister of Great Britain and the president of the United States heartened the people of the United Nations by moving swiftly to merge the military and economic strength of Britain and the United States for a common effort," Eisenhower said.

Close Co-operation

"At that Washington conference they set a more effective pattern for unqualified partnership than has even before been envis

The Washington Merry-Go-Round

By DREW PEARSON AND
ROBERT S. ALLEN

WASHINGTON, June 25—American automobile owners don't know it, but indirectly they had the British to thank for the final decision to build a new pipeline from the South to the Middle West.

Secretary Ickes has been urging construction of this pipeline for more than a year — always being rebuffed by the War Production Board.

Part of Ickes' argument was that it was foolish to waste American tankers by having them carry oil all the way to England from the Gulf of Mexico. If, on the other hand, tankers could load oil and gasoline at a Middle Atlantic port, they could save 1,000 miles of travel and reduce the exposure to submarine attack. The tankers are getting scarce these days, and the shorter the distance they have to steam, the more trips they can make.

Ickes put forth this argument emphatically at the last hearing before the War Production Board, but was rebuffed by Lieut. Gen. Brehon Somervell, head of the army's Service of Supplies. Somervell pooh-poohed the idea that England was hard up for oil or gasoline, said he had just returned from there, and that Ickes' argument was mere poppycock.

Ickes made no immediate reply, but cabled the British government. The British were boiling mad, and the reply he received clinched the matter. The War Production Board decided Somervell didn't know much about British oil supplies. The pipeline was ordered built.

Willkie Spikes Nye

Wendell Willkie's luncheon with Republican senators wasn't as cordial as reporters were told it was.

There was a hostile flareup between Willkie and torrid isolationist Senator Gerald P. Nye of North Dakota, which had the other guests on the edge of their chairs for a few tense moments. The incident occurred unexpectedly.

Nye arrived late and apparently in the friendliest of moods. He rushed over and shook hands warmly with Willkie. Willkie cordially returned the greeting. Neither he nor the other guests were prepared for Nye's next move.

The North Dakotan suddenly remarked: "Mr. Willkie, I was very much delighted with that statement you made the other day."

"What statement do you mean?" asked Willkie.

"You know the statement I mean," snapped Nye. "The one in which you declared that you wouldn't be a candidate for public office any more."

You could have heard a pin drop as the two men eyed one another. For a moment Willkie made no reply to the provocative threat. Then with a derisive chuckle, he quietly replied:

"A very pretty witicism, Senator — very pretty indeed. But I guess your wish was father to the thought. You happen to have your facts balled up. I said nothing of the kind. What I said was that I would not be a candidate for office this year."

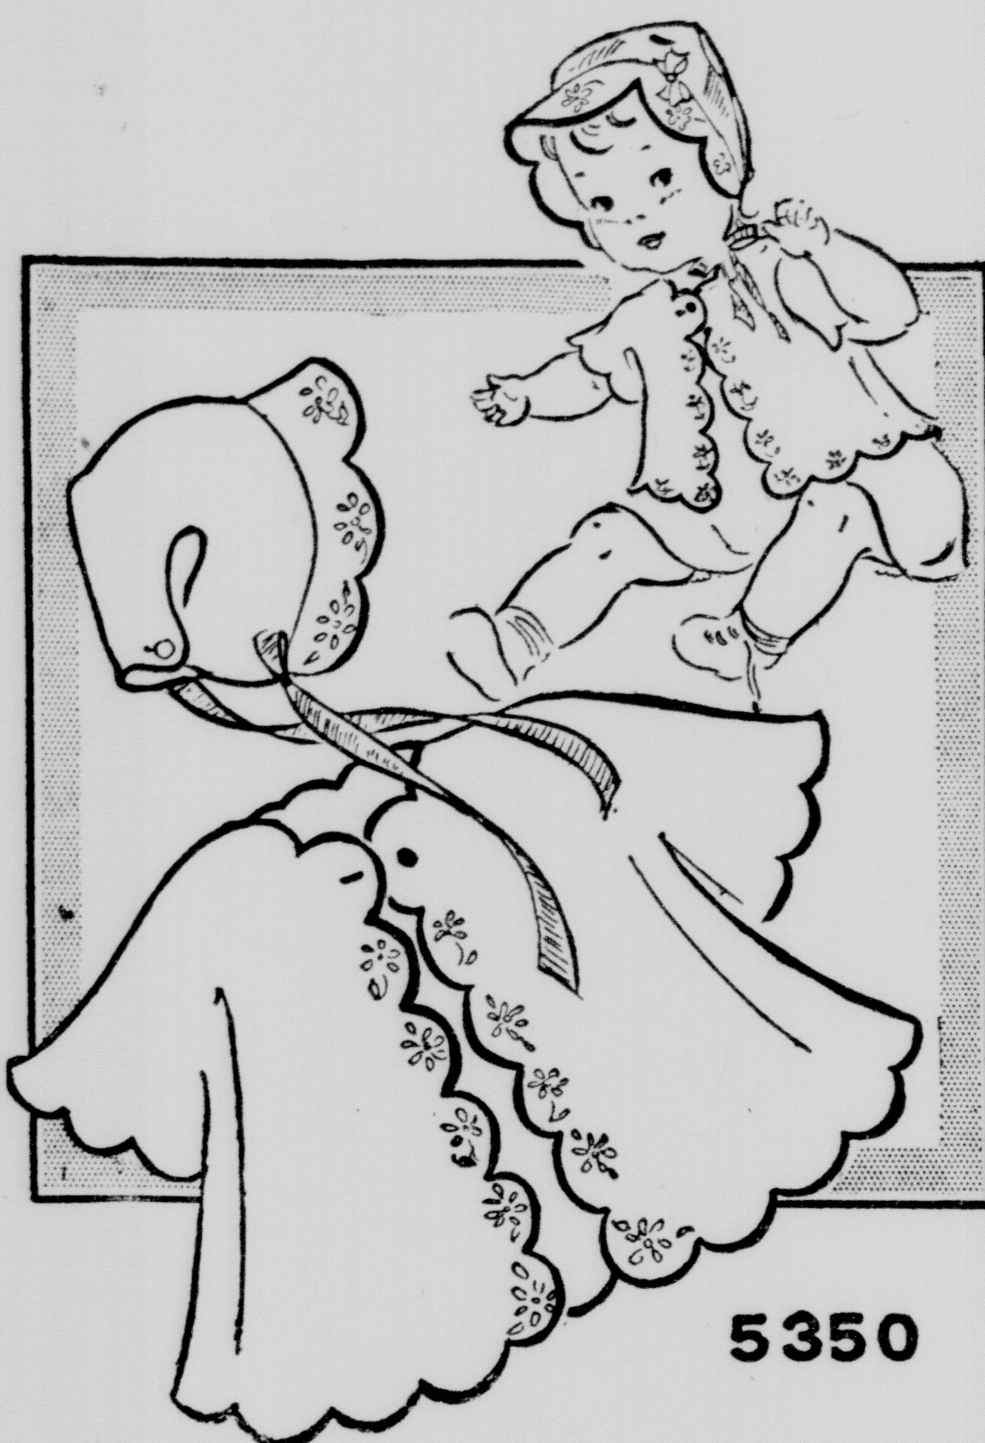

Nelson's Letter

That unpublished letter Donald Nelson sent members of the Truman committee, in an effort to stop the report that blasted some of his top $1-a-year men, actually was the handiwork of two of Nelson's key aides.

One was John Lord O'Brian, WPB general counsel and former corporation lawyer, who several months ago whitewashed some $1-a-year men assailed by the Truman committee. The other was Sidney Weinberg, Wall street banker and executive assistant to Nelson.

Before sending the letter to the committee, Nelson summoned top

WPB executives and informed them of his intention to confer personally with the committee and tell it what was what.

"I'm going up there tomorrow morning," Nelson said. "and put them in their places. They can't push me around. I won't stand for these attacks. They are not helping the war effort."

Nelson went "up there" all right, but before he got through he was singing a different tune.

The committee quietly listened to him as he criticized the report and urged the elimination of its caustic strictures against his $1-a-year masterminds.

Then when Nelson finished, Senator Truman opened up. Ordinarily the bespectacled Missourian is one of the mildest mannered men on Capitol Hill. But when he does get angry, he gets very angry.

Nelson Backed Down

"Mr. Nelson," Truman snapped, "for your information this committee is under mandate from the United States senate to investigate the administration of the war program. The members of this committee are just as much interested in winning the war as you and your assistants. In our work we give anyone who has any connection with a case a fair and full hearing. We have no axes to grind and there is no politics in this committee."

"On several occasions you have taken it upon yourself to infer questionable motives to this committee and have kicked me in the teeth. You have not only kicked me but you have kicked the United States senate in the teeth. Now, it may be that I am not as big as you are, but the United States senate is bigger than you are, and you don't want to forget that this committee is a body of the United States senate and neither you nor anyone else is kicking it or pushing it around."

Truman's sizzling retort was hotly echoed by Senators Ralph Brewster of Maine, Joe Ball of Minnesota, (Republicans) and Jim Mead of New York (Democrat). They vigorously backed up Truman and made it plain that Nelson had no business trying to pressure the committee into white washing his $1-a-year assistants. Whereupon Nelson pulled in his horns and began placating the committee. He said he had no thought of questioning the integrity and assured members he held them in the highest esteem. Concluding Nelson asked that he be allowed to withdraw his letter.

"You can withdraw it if you want to," said Truman, "but I am going to keep my copy." Later, when a colleague asked

CHAPTER I

JUDITH pressed the cocky little hat over her red curls and reached for her purse. It was 12 o'clock and she was in a hurry to be off, but as she turned to leave the office, the buzzer on her desk rang. Reluctantly she flipped the button with a perfectly manicured finger.

"Yes, Mr. Watson?"
"I want to see you at once, Miss Kingsley," said the president of the Watson Airplane Corp. His voice was crisp and urgent.

"Yes, sir," she replied, her tone lacking its usual enthusiasm. She could have removed her hat and put down her purse but she did not. It was her lunch hour and he might as well know she expected to eat. She picked up her note pad and pencil and started for his office. When she entered the spacious room, Watson looked up, a deep frown between his eyes.

"Sit down, Miss Kingsley," he instructed, and motioned her to the chair on the other side of the flat-topped mahogany desk.

She hesitated, thinking if she sat down the interview might be too long. He smiled, relaxing his solemnity for the moment.

"I know—it's 12 o'clock and you have a date for lunch."

"Not a date, Mr. Watson," she answered smilingly and dropped her slim and graceful figure to the chair, "but I am disgustingly hungry for a girl who has to watch her diet and count her calories."

He chuckled.
"I won't keep you long and you will have no use for that," he informed, indicating the note pad. He leaned back in his chair and studied her intently with his dark eyes. "How would you like a trip to California?"

Judith straightened her shoulders and looked at him questioningly.

"I think there is a leak in this organization somewhere and to put my fears at rest, I am sending you to San Diego. I want a check-up on the office force out at the factory. Do you want to go?"

Judith's eyes sparkled and she leaned forward eagerly.

"Of course, I want to go." Her voice was swift with decision.

"It might prove to be a dangerous assignment," Watson informed her gravely. "You understand that? There is time to back out and it isn't compulsory, you know. It won't mean your job if you do not wish to go."

"But I want to go, and I love danger and excitement," she told him, and there was a brightness to her tone that gave truth to her statement.

"I know," He smiled with understanding. "That is why I thought of you immediately. You have never seemed to be afraid of anything or anybody." There was admiration in his eyes. Judith was valuable to the company and he knew it. "You're cool-headed and not easily excited when you get in a tight spot. And you have plenty of determination to see a thing through. I've had my eye on you for a long time, young lady."

"Thank you for the nice compliments. Mr. Watson," Judith said, blushing. "But when do I start for California?" Eagerness trailed her words. "I'm terribly excited."

"At exactly 3 o'clock," He glanced quickly at his watch. "You haven't too much time. You will take the plane for San Diego, and no one here is to know you are going. Just walk out to lunch without a word and don't come back. I'll say you phoned in you were sick. A place will be reserved for you on the liner, and you can pick up the ticket at the field office."

He leaned over the desk and his voice was suddenly very low.

"The plans for that new bomber are being carried out to the west coast factory on the same plane. It's a secret. So keep your eyes open."

"How am I to know who has the plans?" she asked. With her red hair peeking saucily from beneath her hat she looked more like a debutante than an investigator. "After all I don't want to protect the wrong man."

"Tall, dark and handsome, I would say," smiled Watson. "Nice, quiet sort of fellow. The name is Tom Burke."

"Tom Burke!" echoed Judith, startled, and color rose to her cheeks. She looked away quickly. Even if she had fussed with Tom and they had parted ways in anger, the mere mention of his name still had the power to send her heart racing. But that was no reason why she should let Watson suspect anything existed between them.

WATSON nodded his head.

"I thought you would recognize the fellow. Seen you two together on occasions. What do you think of him?"

A deeper flush burned her cheeks and made her furious with embarrassment. She answered a bit curtly.

"Nice on the eyes but conceited and stubborn as a mule."

"Well, never mind." He smiled as if from some inner knowledge and stood up. "Keep your eyes open. I want to nick any sabotage in the bud that might be developing in this company. By the way, Burke is remaining on the coast as consulting engineer for the plant." He let that bit of information sink in, then reached for her hand and pressed it. "I am depending on you to carry through for the company."

"Then I'll be on my way, Mr. Watson." Her red mouth curled in a mischievous grin. "I shall have a very good time and spend the company's money freely."

"You have a free hand on expenses. And happy landing!"

Judith fairly raced from the building and did not stop to eat lunch. She hailed a taxi and rushed to her apartment to pack a hasty bag.

As she walked through the airport gates, the loudspeaker announced the approaching departure of the westbound plane. The afternoon sun sifted through her red hair, and the light of adventure glowed in her eyes. She hurried aboard the big silver ship and took a seat in the rear. She did not have time to look around at her fellow-travelers for a few minutes. There was the task of adjusting the safety belt and making herself comfortable.

But once in the air, she settled down and let her eager eyes rove the ship in search of Tom Burke. In a moment she saw him, up one seat and across the aisle. She studied what little of his head she could see, wondering if he would sense her presence. But he did not turn. A little sigh passed her lips. She knew in her heart that she still loved him, regardless of what had happened or been said.

With an effort, she pulled her gaze from him and looked around at the others she could see. The man in front of her had his head turned to the side. His eyes seemed to be focused on Burke, but she could not be sure from where she sat. The man across the aisle from her was either very frightened or very interested. His stare was glued to the back of Tom's seat. She studied the man for a long time from veiled eyes.

Just as she settled down to read a magazine, a sudden alarming thought came to her.

"Those men are watching Tom. They must know he has the plans for the bomber."

Pointers On Sorghum Given

Sorghum production and syrup making is described in a new circular just issued by the University of Missouri College of Agriculture. This is Station Circular 235—Growing Sorghum and Making Syrup.

The circular points out that the sorghum-making plant should be easily accessible to those bringing in the crop and fuel. It should be near an abundant supply of water so that equipment can be washed often, as cleanliness in syrup making is very important. The evaporating pans are usually covered with a suitable roof, and movable shields are used to prevent wind blowing too strongly over the pans. Covers for containers should be used to protect contents from dust and insects.

A hillside layout is best for small plants. The mill should be placed on the highest level, the raw juice run through pipes into tanks below, and the evaporating pans placed still lower. Good drainage should be provided so conditions will be as sanitary as possible.

The size of the mill, engine, and evaporating pans should be chosen to permit economical operation. The syrup-making season usually last five or six weeks, during which period a horse-driven mill can handle a season's output ranging from 1,500 to 2,500 gallons of syrup. A power mill, with a large evaporator, is adequate for a 10,000 gallon output.

Nazi Raiders Bomb Midlands

LONDON, THURSDAY, June 25.—(AP)—German raiders smashed at two west midlands towns with heavy explosive and incendiary bombs early Wednesday in the first such attack in more than a year, causing a number of casualties and some damage.

Later a lone plane flew low over London, setting anti-aircraft guns into strong action for ten minutes but dropping no bombs here.

A number of persons were trapped in wrecked structures in one of the attacked midlands towns, and rescue workers still were working to release them hours later.

The midlands, heavily industrialized, were frequent targets of some of Germany's most devastating raids against England in the days of the "Blitz" attacks.

Last For Call Married Men With Children

Policy Given As Bill Signed For Aid To Dependents

WASHINGTON, June 25.—(AP)—Draft headquarters announced Wednesday night that, generally speaking, married men with children would be the last to be called into service, but emphasized that they could count upon no permanent deferment.

Enunciating the policy to be followed under the bill signed today giving financial assistance to dependents of men in the armed forces, selective service officials established four broad categories to govern the order in which men shall be called:

"Category 1. Registrants otherwise qualified for military service who have no bona-fide financial dependents.

"Category 2. Registrants otherwise qualified for military service who have financial dependents other than wives or children mentioned in categories 3 or 4.

"Category 3. Registrants otherwise qualified for military service who have wives with whom they are maintaining bona-fide family relationship in their homes and who were married prior to Dec. 8, 1941, and at a time when induction was not imminent.

"Category 4. Registrants otherwise qualified for military service who have wives and children alone, with whom they maintain a bona fide family relationship in their homes who were married prior to Dec. 8, 1941, at a time when induction was not imminent."

Not Permanent Deferment

After setting forth these classifications the selective service system added that it wished to make it "emphatic that they do not provide for the permanent deferment of men with dependents but rather provide the order in which registrants with dependents will be inducted."

Moreover, it appeared that in some cases married men might still be called ahead of others, if such action were necessary to fill draft calls on time. The announcement emphasized that "the national interest requires that all calls to meet the manpower requirements of the armed forces be filled on schedule" but that insofar as was practical in meeting these calls, the category system should be followed.

Thus, it seemed possible that in cases where a draft board is already on the point of sending Companion-features on the bill will be Clarence E. Mulford's "Outlaws of The Desert," starring William "Hopalong" Boyd.

Some members of congress had said they feared that draft boards would consider government financial assistance for dependents a signal to start inducting married men on a large scale.

The government's financial allotments would go to the dependents of army men up to and including the grade of line sergeant and of navy men up to and including third class petty officers.

Dependents would be divided into two groups: Wives, children and former wives entitled to alimony in the first; and brothers, sisters and parents in the second.

In the case of a soldier with class A dependents the government would deduct $22 monthly from his pay and add $28 for his wife or $40 for a wife and one child, with an additional $10 for each additional child; $20 for a child but no wife, and $10 for each additional child, but no wife.

Deductions for class B dependents would be optional with the soldier. They would amount to $22 monthly if there are no class A dependents, and $5 monthly if there are A dependents. To this the government would add $15 for one parent, $25 for two, and $5 for each brother, sister or grandchild.

Doubt Danger Of Second Front

By THOMAS F. HAWKINS

BERN, Switzerland, June 25.—(AP)—Germany does not believe there is a "real danger of a second front in western Europe," and axis armies are preparing for the greatest mass effort on both the African and Russian fronts since the attack on Russia a year ago, neutral advisers from Berlin reported Wednesday night.

Berlin military spokesmen who a few weeks ago spoke in terms of limited battles like those of Kerch and Kharkov now talk of an attack of the widest scope by all forces, it was said.

Believing herself safe against the second front in western Europe, these reports added, Germany will direct her main effort against the "unbelievably immense stocks of men and material" in Russia.

Berlin foreign correspondents were unable to telephone abroad from last night until this morning. This was interpreted by the Zurich newspaper "Die Tat" as strengthening the belief that mass attacks could be expected soon on the eastern front.

Another neutral correspondent in Berlin referred to the impression in the German capital that another "June 22" was likely.

Telephones were similarly blocked a year ago on several occasions two weeks preceding the initial attack on Russia.

The strongest reason for the German readiness to gamble against a second European front is the apparent conviction that submarine warfare will prevent the mass shipping concentration necessary for such a move, it was said.

Cut Budget Asked For The OPA

WASHINGTON, June 25.—(AP)—Price Administration Leon Henderson's proposed budget was more than halved Wednesday by a house appropriations subcommittee which recommended $95,000,000 for the agency instead of the $200,000,000 he requested originally.

There was no comment from Henderson on the subcommittee action, although he indicated recently that he believed congress was holding up the requested OPA appropriation because of dissatisfaction with his appointees. He has declared OPA employees were being chosen without regard to politics.

Henderson's original recommendation contemplated a working force of approximately 90,000 employees. The budget bureau slashed his appropriation figure $66,000,000—leaving enough to take care of about 65,000 employees—the subcommittee's action was believed by members to have reduced to some 30,000.

Hitler Is Trying To Crack Red Line In Gateway To Caucasus

By DE WITT MACKENZIE

Wide World War Analyst
The weight and ferocity of the new Nazi attack against the Russians in the Kharkov sector indicate that Hitler finally is settling down in earnest to the bloody business of trying to crack the Red line in this gateway to the golden Caucasus.

The master gangster's previous assault in this zone more than a fortnight ago apparently was to improve his positions in preparation for a major offensive. Just how much he achieved hasn't yet been made clear, although he did force the Russian line back in places. This fresh drive, now in its fourth day, may be the real thing.

Judging from reports the battle thus far has in effect been a triumph for Red Marshal Timoshenko's fighting devils. The Germans have dented the Soviet line in the Donets Basin, but appear to have done so at a terrific cost in life and material. Naturally the attacker's losses are far heavier than those of the defense—something like three to one under normal circumstances and heaven only knows what in the present instance.

Successful So Far

Thus so long as the Bolsheviks can prevent a break-through they are making long strides towards victory even though they remain on the defensive. This is so because Hitler is now suffering damage which he no longer can repair. He already has under arms about all the physically fit men he can call, without bringing out the very young or those beyond their prime. Further—and this is important—he has passed the peak of his war production and cannot increase his output. He is facing the down grade.

Future Uncertain

Can the Russians continue to hold the Nazis and keep them from breaking through to the resources of the Caucasus and Middle East? That's on the knees of the gods, but the indications are that while Hitler still possesses vast power he isn't as strong as he was a year ago when he recklessly assaulted the Reds.

If sacrifice of German youth could turn the trick, the Nazi might succeed. The only regard a German commander has for the lives of his soldiers relates to the number he can afford to throw away. Life in itself means nothing; the objective is everything. That's militarism, the result of a brutal training which starts with babyhood.

Down on the Crimea there is perhaps even more sanguinary fighting as the Nazis press their siege of the great Red naval base of Sevastopol. Berlin this morning reported that axis troops had penetrated deeper into the Russian defense and that street fighting was proceeding. I should say that the position of Sevastopol is critical.

Nazis Into Egypt

Over on the Libyan desert Nazi Field Marshal Rommel's mechanized forces have been able to sweep fifty miles or more into Egypt owing to British withdrawals. Axis troops have penetrated to the neighborhood of Sidi Barrani, and Rome claims that this coastal post has been captured. This takes the invaders into Egypt as far as the Italians reached way back in 1940, so history is repeating itself.

The British fought a rearguard action as they withdrew to more suitable positions. The forces engaged must have suffered intensely under a summer sun which pours down killing rays and heats the desert sands so hot you could fry an egg on them. I witnessed the results of the terrible battle of Romani in the Sinai desert near the Suez Canal in August of 1916, and I never want to see another sight light that. Men died of heat and thirst—cooked to death.

Matruh Vital Point

One would expect the British to begin their real stand at Matruh on the coast. This is about ninety miles east of Sidi Barrani and is an important point. Matruh was head of the railroad to the great naval base of Alexandria until the line recently was extended into Libya by the British.

The new British withdrawal thus far is strategic and was expected in view of the circumstances of the defeat in Libya.

LAST CALL! SELL U.S. YOUR SCRAP RUBBER NOW!

Your country needs your scrap rubber . . . it may avert gas rationing

● Have you joined this drive? Every American can, because every home has some scrap rubber. Right now, why not drop anything else you're doing and comb every nook and corner of your house and property! The days left are so few—the drive ends at midnight, next Tuesday, June 30.

America needs that rubber, needs it for the Army, the Navy, the Marines—and for the industries that are making them invincible. And also, remember, a successful scrap rubber drive may avert gasoline rationing in the Middle West. Rationing will not be needed here because of a gasoline shortage but only as a means of saving tires for possible future war use.

So dig out every available bit of old or unused rubber. The petroleum industry has offered its thousands of service stations as receiving depots. When you take your scrap rubber to your Standard Oil Dealer, or to any other service station, the rubber will be weighed and you'll get your money at that time.

STANDARD SERVICE

NATION-WIDE scrap rubber drive ends next Tuesday, June 30

No oil company will receive one penny profit for this service. Each will turn the collected scrap rubber over to the government and be paid for it at the rate of $25 per ton (2000 pounds). The difference between the amount we pay and the amount Uncle Sam pays us has been pledged to the USO, Navy Relief, Army Relief, and American Red Cross.

The success of this drive—the ability of Uncle Sam to avoid the necessity of gasoline rationing—may well depend on the cooperation of every patriotic citizen. Get in the scrap rubber!

Any Standard Oil Dealer or Agent will pay you 1¢ a pound for your reclaimable scrap rubber, such as:

Public Asked To Visit The Nursery School

Opening At School For Negro Children Friday Afternoon

The public is invited to attend an open house tea at the Minniola Cottage nursery school located at Lamine and Morgan streets, Friday afternoon and evening from 3 until 8 o'clock, by the sponsors, staff members, and parents of the school children.

The nursery school, under the direction of the Works Project Administration, is sponsored by the Pettis county court and the city of Sedalia. It offers service to 35 pre-school Negro children from low income families. Having just completed the first year as a nursery school unit, the school and sponsors are proud of the record made.

Each child upon entering is given a physical examination by Dr. W. C. Dansey, Negro physician. This includes also a tuberculin test, immunization against diphtheria and vaccination for small pox.

Sponsors Aid
Equipment and supplies to serve the needs of the growing child have been installed by the sponsors. Cod liver oil pellets, furnished by the state department of health, are given daily to each child. All-day service includes daily inspection, outdoor play, establishment of fundamental habits, special activities in stories, music, art and excursions, and a well-balanced mid-day meal followed by a nap, and mid-morning and mid-afternoon nourishment.

Careful attention is given the children in every way so that they may become good citizens and build strong foundations for their school years which lie ahead. Teachers work in close co-operation with the home in carrying forward the program established in school. Parents assist in the nursery school program in order to learn better technique in handling their children.

Staff Members
Sponsors furnish the quarters, utilities, food and most of the equipment and supplies in addition to other special services. The Works Project Administration furnishes the staff personnel and supervision. The staff is composed of Violetta W. Jackson as head teacher, Susie Simpson, assistant teacher, Sylvia Johnson, cook, and Betty Nichols, housekeeper. Miss Minniola Jackson assists with the parents' group.

Advisory Committee
Members of the advisory committee are: Mayor A. H. Wilks, Judge Lon E. Leslie, Heber U. Hunt, superintendent of schools, Miss Rosanne Dugan, county director of Social Services, Mrs. F. M. Fulkerson, Mrs. E. F. Yancy.

The Negro members are: Prof. C. C. Hubbard, Dr. W. C. Dansey, Mrs. Fredonia Kingsbury and Miss Violetta W. Jackson.

Robert Reuter, Jr., Killed In Auto Collision

reportedly driven by Melvin Thomas of Tusculum, which, one of the occupants of the car said, turned slowly to the right as though to turn into a side road. Ream, thinking he could pass it before it turned in, also turned to the right, barely touched the rear fender of the car, but failed to remain on the highway, went across the side road and down an embankment, 10 or 12 feet in depth.

Ream and the two girls received only slight bruises. Reuter, it is believed was cut by the glass from the car window, which penetrated his jugular vein, and he bled to death almost instantly.

The accident was witnessed by a large number of persons, as services in a church nearby had just disbanded, and the members were starting home.

Body To Sedalia
After the accident the body of Mr. Reuter was taken to the Kays Funeral Home at Eldon and later McLaughlin's hearse was sent there to bring it to Sedalia.

Robert Reuter, Jr., was born in Sedalia April 6, 1916 and received his education in the schools here being a graduate of the class of 1934 in the Smith-Cotton high school. In his graduation year and the preceding year he was on the football and basketball squads there making an excellent record in sports. Since graduation he has been employed by the Pepsi Cola Company of Sedalia. He belonged to the Broadway Presbyterian church and Sedalia lodge No. 125, B. P. O. Elks.

Russell Ream left February 1934 in an automobile accident near Columbia, Mo., in which his wife was killed. He is a cousin of Winston Ream, manager at the Pepsi-Cola plant, who, with some of the employees of that company, left for Eldon after word was received of the fatal accident to ascertain facts concerning how it happened.

Robert Reuter is survived by his parents, Mr. and Mrs. Robert Reuter, of 121 1/2 East Third street, his father having been a gasoline inspector and back tax collector for the City of Sedalia up to some months ago. A younger brother, "Jack" Reuter, who was with the Capital's news staff up to the time the 128th field artillery was called to training camp at Fort Jackson, South Carolina, and who is now with that military group at Fort Blanding, Fla., also survives him as does a sister, Miss Nancy, who is employed in Kansas City.

Miss Nancy Reuter returned to Sedalia on an early morning train today, and Mr. Reuter, when notified at the hospital of his son's death, started immediately for Sedalia.

Mr. Reuter, the father, has been a patient at the S. B. A. hospital in Topeka, Kas.

Report Sergeant Rosen Missing

A war department announcement states that among army personnel missing after the torpedoing on June 15 of an American freighter off the eastern coast was Sergeant Charles M. Rosen, son of Mrs. Sarah Rosen, Kansas City. The address given was 3037 Benton Boulevard, Kansas City, the home of the Rosen family.

The father, Pete Rosen, has been here recently with another son, Morris Rosen, who is conducting the Golden Eagle store on South Ohio avenue, and the mother is now visiting family members and friends here being at the home of Mrs. Fannie Isgur, 720 West Third street.

No details were given in the message and the parents up to late Wednesday night had received no direct information from the war department concerning their son's being listed among the missing.

Charles Rosen has been with the army of the United States as a master sergeant and the last communication his parents had from him under date of May 17.

At that time he was supposedly with the American forces in the Iceland region where troops had been sent from the United States a considerable time ago. He wrote then he was "feeling fine."

Sedalian Third In Golf Match

COLUMBIA, Mo., June 24—(AP)—The Columbia Country Club golfers scored 344 1/2 points today to step ahead of Fulton in the third round of the intercity golf tournament.

Today's scores and the totals for the three rounds: Columbia 344 1/2—910 1/2; Fulton 281 1/2—873 1/2; Sedalia 252 1/2—766 1/2; Jefferson City 201 1/2—669 1/2.

Herman Crookshank, Jefferson City, with 74, two over par, was medalist today. The final round will be played at Fulton tomorrow.

Changes In Draft Group

John Greer, R.F.D. 1, Marshall, will replace Maxwell Pierce Casey, and Henry Dixon Makin, 1212 Jefferson, LaPorte, Ind., will replace Marvin Lee Crutcher, Jr., in the Selective Service call for July 13. It was announced by the local board this afternoon.

According to the report of the board Casey has enlisted in the United States Navy, while Crutcher is to be commissioned a second lieutenant in the army, as a veterinarian. Crutcher has been attending the Texas A. & M. school, and it was learned that because of his qualifications there, he had been recommended for the commission prior to his call by the local board.

The local board was also notified by the authorities of Saline county, that Leonard Clarence Duffey, R.F.D. Lamonte, subject to leave for induction Friday morning through the Selective Service Act, had been picked up for investigation in connection with hog stealing in that county.

The prosecuting attorney notified the board that he might be released to leave with the group, but if he does not show up charges would be preferred against him.

Situation In Egypt Apparently Quickly Reaching A Showdown

heavy losses on them," the British command said.

Captured Key Cities

Simultaneously, the Italian high command announced that axis forces had captured the key frontier citadels of Fort Capuzzo, Halfaya (Hellfire) pass and Salum, and then raced 50 miles inside Egypt to capture Sidi Barrani.

It was at bloody Halfaya pass, a rocky easily-defended stronghold southeast of Salum, that the British had been expected possibly to make their main stand against Rommel's legions after the disaster at Tobruk.

Sidi Barrani, about 430 miles west of the Suez canal, had been in British hands since December 11, 1940, when Italian troops who occupied the town three months earlier were put to flight by Gen. Sir Archibald P. Wavell's triumphant counteroffensive.

"The remaining resistance of the British Eighth Army has been overcome on the Libyan-Egyptian frontier," the Italian high command said.

"Axis forces continued in pursuit of the enemy, who is retiring to the east."

It was not clear immediately whether the British armies had executed a strategic voluntary withdrawal to stronger defense positions, as London military quarters had intimated might be done, or whether they had been thrown back by violent assault.

In any event, the threat to the green valley of the Nile and the vital Suez Canal was now sharply outlined, and it remained to be seen whether Gen. Sir Claude Auchinleck's battered forces disorganized and weary from the Libyan desert campaign, could stem the victory-flushed axis legions.

Dispatches from Cairo indicated that the British intended to make their main stand somewhere before Matruh, railroad 130 miles east of the Egyptian-Libyan frontier.

Following Enemy
A Nazi communique also said axis columns were rolling forward "in quick pursuit of the beaten enemy."

While the battle of Egypt opened on an ominous note for Britain, Adolf Hitler's field headquarters asserted that axis shock troops had knifed deeper into the fortifications of Sevastopol in "bitter forest and house-to-house fighting."

Story Of The Dutch Harbor Happenings

Jap Attack Caught Civilians By Surprise

(EDITOR'S NOTE: What actually happened at Dutch Harbor? The dramatic answer to the question, uppermost in American minds since the Jap planes attacked June 3, is supplied in eyewitness quotations for the first time in the following dispatch.)

SEATTLE, June 25—(AP)—In the first dramatic eyewitness report of what happened at Dutch Harbor, evacuees and seamen told upon arrival of a transport here how the Japanese air attack at 5:45 a. m. June 3 caught civilians by surprise and how the gallant gunners on their ship-land ashore laid a deadly screen of anti-aircraft fire about the raiding planes.

While army and navy men manned the anti-aircraft guns, some of the ship's crew snatched up rifles and blew away at the dive bombers.

How many Jap planes were downed has never been announced officially. Reports brought by the witnesses to the raids failed to clarify the point.

Silent On Damage

Service men aboard the ship were tight-lipped about what damage was done at the Dutch Harbor base, but "the damage was light—considering that no matter how long you've been warned and have been expecting a raid, there's bound to be some surprise when they finally do come over in force," said a corporal.

"I spent seven months in France as an artilleryman in the last war," commented C. W. Flack, 45, a ship's porter from San Francisco, "but I saw more action in two days at Dutch Harbor than in all of those seven months."

Unalaska's Mayor Fletcher, said in a description of the scene: "There was a hell of an attack in the harbor on the ship we came down on. The men at the guns put up a curtain of fire that was deadly. The dive bombers couldn't get very close."

"The ship had docked in Dutch Harbor only the night before the first dawn bombing raid. She was taken out into the harbor after the bombing started."

"The anti-aircraft fire that went up from the ship was really something to behold."

Awakened By Firing
"I was awakened by the anti-aircraft firing. My bed faces over the bay, and I jumped up and flicked up the shade. As I recall it, I saw three planes coming in over the head, about a mile and a quarter from my home."

"I don't think they (the Japanese fliers) expected to run into the hot fire from anti-aircraft guns that greeted them."

Fletcher said one wave of three bombers was driven off by ack-ack fire.

Fletcher estimated the raid lasted 30 to 40 minutes.

The Unalaska mayor said the action of the bombs after exploding led military authorities to conclude that they included incendiary qualities.

He declared people never would be able to understand the horror of being awakened in the early morn by a bombing attack until they actually experienced it.

Demonstration And Play Day By 4-H Club Council

Is To Be A One Day Event At Park Friday, June 26

The 4-H Club Play Day and Demonstration Day as planned by the 4-H Club Council and leaders will be held at Liberty Park, Friday, June 26.

In the past Play Day and Demonstration Day have been two separate events. In order to save time and tires they have been combined into a one day event this year.

The morning program which will start at 10 o'clock will be devoted to demonstrations. T. T. Martin, State Club Agent, will hear the demonstrations given and offer suggestions as to how to improve them. The following clubs have indicated that they will give demonstrations, Arator 4-H club, La Monte 4-H club, Flat Creek 4-H club, Striped College 4-H club, Quisenberry 4-H club, and Dresden 4-H club.

These demonstrations and the suggestions and comments offered will be very helpful to all club members and leaders in developing demonstrations in their clubs.

Group Picnic Lunch
At noon it is planned for the entire group to join in a picnic lunch with each person contributing food. Mrs. C. E. Romig of Dresden will be in charge. The afternoon will be devoted to games and songs with the game leaders Mrs. Louis Igo, George Demond, and Stella Sperber in charge of games and Mrs. J. U. Morris in charge of group singing.

Another interesting part of the afternoon program will be the reports given by Mrs. Marion Crawford, Helen Bernice Price, and George Demond about the Conservation Camp they attended last week.

The program will close with a patriotic ceremony with Mrs. P. S. Read in charge assisted by Dorothy Helen White and Billy Rissler.

Price Control And Living Costs

The question is sometimes asked, how effective will price controls be in helping to hold down living costs. Probably the best idea of how this will work is obtained from how it has worked in other countries. In Canada, general price controls were put into effect December 1, 1941. According to Dominion Bureau of Statistics index numbers, living costs have declined slightly since these controls were instituted, and wholesale prices have advanced about 1 per cent. Between August 1939 and November 1941, living costs in Canada rose 15 per cent, and wholesale prices 30 per cent.

In England, a definite policy of price stabilization was announced in April 1941. From then until February of this year, the Ministry of Labor Cost of Living index rose about 1 per cent, compared with a 30 per cent rise during the first 20 months of the war. The corresponding rise in the wholesale price index amounted to 5 per cent, compared with 54 per cent during the first 20 months of the war.

The effects of the upward pressure on the general price level of rising consumer income and declining production for civilian use will be offset to a considerable extent by broadened Government controls, and further advance in wholesale and retail prices probably will be small compared with those of last year.

Suggestions for Victory Garden

Tying Cauliflower Heads

Those who grow cauliflower know the crisp, tender quality which is obtained from this vegetable. As the head forms and develops, its appetizing appearance encourages the grower to want to protect it in some manner.

Often this results in the practice of pulling the leaves up over the head and tying them together at the top. The only advantage that this practice has is that it does maintain the white color of the head, but has no advantage in any other respect. The practice is not at all necessary, because heads which are left open only develop a creamy white, or in case they grow large and stand in bright sunshine many days, may develop just a little greenish cast over the top. This in nowise affects the quality of the cauliflower and may only have the tendency of adding slightly to the flavor.

Mulching Materials
Knowing the advantage of mulching tomatoes, many growers are anxious to secure its benefits. Straw which is free from grain or any other seed is most ideal for mulching purposes, but in many instances straw is not available.

Hay which is unfit for feed, or grass which is free of weed seed, may also be used. Even lawn clippings may be of some help as mulching material.

Frequently, individuals who do not have any of these materials ask about the value of sawdust for mulching. This material is used successfully in some instances but it also has some disadvantages. In the first place, sawdust rots very, very slowly. Therefore, it may remain in the soil several seasons before it finally is decomposed. Often, the resins which are mixed with the sawdust prove harmful to plants and may in severe instances kill the roots. It is best, therefore, to resort to the use of sawdust as a mulch only if no other material is available, and then to use only small quantities of old, well-weathered sawdust, which is more free from harmful substances than is the fresh.

Train Sweet Potato Runners
As sweet potato vines start their growth they send their runners in all directions. If these are allowed to grow promiscuously they will soon take up enough space that cultivation will be very difficult and in order to avoid injuring the vines cultivation is apt to be stopped too soon.

It is therefore best when the runners of the sweet potatoes start to develop to train them in the row, and thus continue shallow cultivation until these vines become so thick on the ground that further cultivation is impossible.

If this simple practice is followed, weed control is made much more simple and as a result of controlling the weeds, conserving the moisture, greater yield from the sweet potato plants may be expected.

Can Beans While Young And Tender
Green beans are best for canning in the early tender stage when the bean is just starting to develop within the pod, while most of the pod is still filled with tender pulp full of delicious flavor. At this time the pods are tender, with no strong fibers often spoken of as strings, and their eating qualities are excellent.

In this stage beans class as a green or yellow vegetable and contain protective food elements in much larger quantities than are present when the beans develop to the stage where they fill the pod and the pulp disappears.

It is most important, therefore, if the highest quality canned beans are to be available for use during the winter, that the beans be harvested and canned in the young, tender, crisp, delicious stage of development.

Thin Parsnips For Best Development
It is best to thin parsnips while they are still young, so that they stand at least four inches apart in order to give each one an opportunity to develop smooth, straight, well-filled roots for highest quality eating through the storage season.

Parsnips are among the easiest crops to store and therefore can be available throughout the entire winter. They have a very distinct flavor, which makes them an excellent vegetable to add variety in the diet.

Their seed is small and there-

Three From County At Conservation Camp

These three people returned Monday from the State Conservation Camp at Meramec State Park near Sullivan, Missouri, where they had spent four days as guests at the camp. They are left to right Mrs. Marion Crawford, leader from the La Monte Better Workers 4-H club, Helen Bernice Price, member of the La Monte Better Workers Home Grounds project, center, and George Demond, member of the Smithton Entomology club, right.

fore in most instances is planted thickly in the row, which results in parsnips being crowded. This, of course, makes a good looking row, but if all of them are allowed to remain and grow through the season, the result is apt to be many small, odd-shaped roots.

New Gooseberry Yields Heavily
This year is the third year the Pixwell gooseberry has been producing in tests at the Missouri Agricultural Experiment Station. Each year it has outyielded other varieties and has been particularly resistant to hot weather.

Four-year-old bushes this season have produced more than two gallons of fruit. The quality is very good. The long stems and large berries of this variety, together with its reduced number of thorns, make it very easy to harvest; hence its name, Pixwell. Three to five plants of this variety would give the average sized family a large supply of the fruit for canning.

How To Polish Pewter Pitcher

The problem of how to polish an old pewter pitcher of which Mrs. Harry Sneed is very proud has been solved by her daughter who has been in the New England states and found the method used there by some of the people who have beautiful old pewter. Mrs. Sneed states that they recommend polishing it with the very finest of steel wool. This should be used carefully but is a safe way to shine up the pitcher. Although there are not many pieces of pewter in Pettis County, the women have found it is something hard to polish and most of the people who own it are very proud to keep it in good condition.

More Butter Fat From Dairy Herds Than A Year Ago

The cows owned by the members of the Dairy Herd Improvement Association produced about 12 per cent more butterfat and milk per cow during the month of May this year as compared to May a year ago. In May 1942 the 464 cows owned by Association members produced an average of 726 pounds of milk and 31.2 pounds of butterfat. 52 of the cows produced over 50 pounds of butterfat and 82 over 40 pounds but under 50 pounds of fat. 110 cows produced more than 1,000 pounds of milk.

The Holstein herd owned by C. G. Ficken had the highest average butterfat production which was 36.9 per cow. The cows in this herd averaged 1200 pounds of milk. A registered Jersey owned by Hillview farms, La Monte, produced 93.7 pounds of butterfat and 2130 pounds of milk.

Five association members sold 14 low producing and unprofitable cows during the month. One member added two cows to his herd.

Three new members were added during the month including G. V. Long & Sons, Holden; T. E. Terrell, Holden; and C. W. Manford, Holden.

The intensified work of the dairy farmers plus an excellent spring for milk production is causing an excess of milk at the present time. Lack of cargo-carrying ships caused by the submarine warfare also is helping to bring about the present excess of some dairy products.

With guns, tanks, and food vying for a place in the ship's hold, it's the food that packs the most food value in the smallest space that wins out. Requests of the United Nations, therefore, have shifted from evaporated to powdered milk. The present rate of evaporated milk production greatly exceeds prospective requirements and dry skim milk now has the top spot on the shipping list with the British asking for 200 million pounds of dry skim milk for the coming year.

Dry skim milk is so much in demand because its shipping qualities are much superior to whole milk. It can be shipped in sacks like grain foods while the butterfat in dry whole milk causes it to get rancid unless it receives certain care in shipping. Soups, bread, gravy, and similar foods are prepared for soldiers in the field from dried skim milk.

Only small amounts of butter have been purchased for distribution under the Lend-Lease program, but it seems likely that more butter will be needed in the near future.

According to M. J. Ragan, Extension Dairyman, most milk producers have met and surpassed the production goals first called for by the government in April 1941, and now they need to watch market demands carefully in order to meet changing requirements.

Farm WAR NEWS

Q. Why is the rubber situation so acute?

A. The Japs now occupy areas from which 90 per cent of our rubber supply normally comes.

Q. Will the old rubber collected in the present drive be used for war equipment?

A. Yes. Rubber is essential to a complete and final victory. Here are the facts: A four motor bomber requires as much rubber as three dozen passenger cars; a battleship uses more rubber than 4,000 automobiles; the amount of rubber used in a tire will make 8 gas masks; and three unbuilt passenger cars will put wheels on a 37 mm. anti-aircraft gun.

Q. Is the shortage of rubber hurting the war effort?

A. Yes. It is reported some tanks are now being made with steel tread due to the rubber need. This reduces the speed of the tanks by 20 miles per hour.

Q. How much rubber is used each year in the United States?

A. In 1940 approximately 766,000 tons. Annual war needs exceed that figure.

Q. Haven't we some rubber in stockpiles?

A. About 700,000 tons but this will be needed for war production.

Q. Is rubber required to equip a soldier?

A. Yes, one and one-half pounds for every man in the armed forces.

Care Urged In Use Of Irons

Three "don'ts" for owners of electric irons — which, like other electric appliances, are practically irreplaceable now — are: Don't overheat — don't put in water — and don't drop. The U. S. Department of Agriculture points out that a few simple precautions recommended by the Bureau of Home Economics will prolong service.

Use the iron on the right circuit, preferably from a convenient outlet, not a light socket. The name plate usually gives the voltage and kind of current required — direct or alternating. Irons with thermostats operate only on alternating current, and plugging into a direct current circuit may ruin the thermostat.

Repeated overheating may injure the heating element and is likely to discolor the soleplate. Overheating of the element in a thermostatically controlled iron is caused by using it on a circuit in which the voltage is too high. The most common cause of overheating of an uncontrolled iron is attaching the iron too long before starting the ironing or leaving it connected while doing something else.

Keep the iron clean, especially the soleplate, but never put one into water. Let it cool, wipe with a damp cloth, dry thoroughly, store in a clean, dry place. Wax occasionally with beeswax. Dropping an electric iron may break the heating element or thermostat. A fall may also scratch the soleplate so that it catches on the fabric to be ironed.

Pulling on the cord to disconnect an iron instead of taking hold of the plug is another common mistake, as it is likely to pull the wires loose inside the plug. Irons with detachable cords should be disconnected first from the wall outlet. Pulling the plug from the iron first will in time cause pitting of the terminals. These are likely to be hard to replace as they are made of strategic materials.

Special Leave For Demonstration Agent

The Pettis County Farm Bureau board and the University of Missouri granted special leave to Dorothy Bacon, Home Demonstration agent, who left Wednesday, June 24 for Sylvan Grove, Kansas. While there she will help care for her father, who is ill and also help with the wheat harvest.

She will also have a short visit with her brother, Captain Lewis Bacon, of the advanced Flying Field, Stockton, California, and his family who have been visiting there and will leave Wednesday night.

Miss Helen Bradley, Assistant Home Demonstration agent, at large, has been placed in Pettis county to do the Home Demonstration work until Miss Bacon returns July 20.

Soil Building After Harvest

The major portion of the soil building practice payment on Pettis county farms under the 1942 Agricultural Conservation Program will be earned by the application of limestone, announced B. C. Claycomb, Chairman of the Pettis County Agricultural Conservation Association.

Considerable difficulty was met with by limestone contractors this spring due to the excessive rains making it impossible to spread on the field before much of the spring seeding and planting was done. This will mean that there will be a great demand for the spreading of limestone after small crops have been harvested and before wheat seeding time this fall.

Claycomb is urging that farmers intending to earn their soil building payment by the application of limestone and who can use it on pasture land or legume or grass fields to contact the county committee in order that delivery might be made during the contractor's slack time in the growing season. "If all farmers do not accept their limestone until after harvest the demand will be so great contractors will not be able to complete all deliveries before the final date of September 30, 1942 for the earning of the 1942 soil building practice payment," states Claycomb.

The county committee is anxious to cooperate with farmers and contractors to complete all orders placed so that soil building payments might be earned wherever possible. Farmers having difficulty in obtaining their limestone are requested to contact the county committee.

Visit Made To Home Gardens

When planning their community program last winter the people in the Bowling Green Community built it around and emphasized the home production of food. Good home gardens were included in the planning. Last Wednesday a tour was made of six gardens in the community. The gardens visited included those of Mr. and Mrs. P. A. Carry, Mr. and Mrs. Wilbur O'Leary, Mrs. Sam Bake, Mrs. Truman Embury, Mr. L. V. Igo, and Mrs. J. W. Stevens.

Even though the spring has been unusually wet all of the gardens looked good. They were all comparatively free of weeds. All of the gardens had a wide variety of vegetables in them with most of them having 21 or more different vegetables. Succession plantings was another practice that is being followed in most of the gardens visited. The beans especially in most gardens looked fine and were producing abundantly. The variety of vegetables found in most of the gardens included lettuce, radishes, spinach, carrots, peas, onions, mustard, Irish potatoes, sweet potatoes, cabbage, beets, asparagus, rhubarb, beans, sweet corn, tomatoes, peppers, cucumbers, parsnips Swiss chard and salsfy.

The insects causing the most damage include the striped cucumber beetle, the cabbage worm, the bean beetle, and in a few cases the tomato worm. These insects are being fought with dust and sprays to control them.

Placing More Emphasis On Vitamins

Amounts Needed By Ordinary Standards Small

The rapid increase in our knowledge of vitamins has brought about a striking shift in emphasis on nutritional problems points out Bulletin 446—Vitamins—just issued by the University of Missouri College of Agriculture.

Twenty-five years ago students of nutrition were chiefly concerned with the quality and quantity of protein and minerals, and with problems in energy metabolism. The emphasis on these nutrients has not diminished, but the emphasis on vitamins has vastly increased. It is realized now that many of the important problems in the nutrition of men and animals are due to the fact that under certain systems of feeding the supply of vitamins is insufficient.

By ordinary standards the amounts of vitamins required are exceedingly minute, but although only small quantities are required their importance cannot be exaggerated. If man or animals receive none at all they soon perish. If they receive insufficient amounts the health is impaired. In practice, mild deficiencies probably cause higher total losses than do severe deficiencies. It is relatively uncommon for a diet, or ration, to contain so little of a vitamin that obvious symptoms of a deficiency occur. It is reasonable to suppose that when one case occurs there must be several cases that are too mild to produce characteristic symptoms, but which are sufficiently severe to lower the state of health.

While ordinarily we think of people, and livestock, as being either healthy or sick, it is well recognized now that there is no sharp dividing line between health and disease. There are individuals who have not a single characteristic symptom of any disease, and yet do not possess that degree of health they are capable of achieving. Some of us can never have perfect health, but many of us could attain better health than we have now.

Categories Governing New Order

Give Skilled Men Chance To Work In Industry

WASHINGTON, June 25.—(P)—Family men and key war workers will be the last to be called to the colors by local draft boards under new orders sent out today.

Draft headquarters announced four categories to govern the order under which men will be called up on the basis of dependency, leaving married men with children as the last to be inducted but emphasizing that they could count upon no permanent deferment.

Meanwhile Paul V. McNutt, war manpower commissioner, changed his previous work-order fight orders to give men with essential skills a chance to find jobs in vital war industries before being taken into the army. Previously selective service boards had been asked only to defer essential workers who actually had key jobs.

The draft headquarters ruling was in line with the bill President Roosevelt signed yesterday granting allowances for soldiers' dependents. The ruling established general groups to be inducted in the following order:

General Groups
"Category 1. Registrants otherwise qualified for military service who have no bona-fide financial dependents."
"Category 2. Registrants otherwise qualified for military service who have financial dependents."

When a local draft board runs out of men in the first category it will dip into the next one and so on.

Other aspects of the draft headquarters orders are explained in the following questions and answers:

Q. Will it be compulsory for local draft boards to classify their registrants into the four categories and call up men for service in this order?

A. Selective Service headquarters said it was the "expressed intent of Congress" under the new law and insofar as practical should be followed.

Q. Will a married man who is now subject to induction be reclassified according to the new categories?

A. The directive is not retroactive, but selective service said until reclassification is completed men should be selected for service according to the four categories.

Q. Is it possible for a married man to be placed in the first category?

A. Yes, if the wife is not dependent upon him. She might work and have a salary large enough to support herself or she might have sufficient independent income. The wife's dependency is the vital issue.

Q. Will some married men be called ahead of others?

A. Yes. Local draft boards must fill their calls for men on time and it may be necessary for some of them to dip into the lower categories before others. One board may not call men registered with another.

Q. When may married men and married men with children expect to be called?

A. That depends upon the reserves of men their local boards may have in the first two categories and the ultimate manpower requirement for the war effort.

Circumstances Govern Cases
Q. What about provisions for financial assistance to dependents in the new law?

A. This depends upon the status of dependency. The law provides for assistance to dependents of enlisted men below the grade of line sergeant. A soldier's wife would receive $50 a month, $22 of which would come from her husband's pay. The amount for a wife and one child would be $62 with $10 additional for each additional child.

There also is a scale for payments to parents and other dependents on a voluntary basis with government aid.

On The . . .

Brighter Side

BARADFORD, Pa. — A practice air raid blackout embarrassed two young women carrying several bottles of beer down a street.

When the sirens sounded, a special policeman hastily escorted them to the nearest air raid shelter—the first Methodist Episcopal church. "I had to do it," explained the officer, "it was the only place to put them."

Parents delayed an operation. Ronny tripped and fell, cutting the membrane on a front tooth.

Now he doesn't need the operation.

DENVER — Completely baffled is Col. Thomas N. Gimperling.

He's received letters from six Illinois women who wanted to enlist in the "hard-riding, hard-fighting women's cavalry corps of the U.S. Army."

He's never heard of that unit.

Ladies Aiding
RENO, Nev. — The war is plaguing legalized gambling. A Reno club, with men growing scarce, had to hire women as game dealers.

vice who have financial dependents other than wives or children mentioned in categories 3 or 4.

"Category 3. Registrants otherwise qualified for military service who have wives with whom they are maintaining a bona fide family relationship in their homes and who were married prior to December 8, 1941, and at a time induction was not imminent."

"Category 4. Registrants otherwise qualified for military service who have wives and children or children alone, with whom they maintain a bona fide family relationship in their homes who were married prior to December 8, 1941, at a time when induction was not imminent."

Proposals That May Be On The Final Ballot

Petitions In Support Of Both Circulated

By DON DOANE
JEFFERSON CITY, June 25.—(P)—Two controversial proposals appear headed for a place on next November's ballots.

One, sponsored by the Missouri pension society, would set aside $29,000,000 state money each year for old age pensions and aid to dependent children — more than twice the present expenditures.

The other, sponsored by the Crusaders, Inc., would set up a unicameral, or one-house legislature to replace the present two-house plan.

To appear on November's ballots, those proposed constitutional amendments must be filed in the office of the secretary of state by midnight, July 2. Each must bear the signature of at least five per cent of the voters in at least nine of the state's 13 congressional districts.

Circulated Petitions
Initiative petitions in support of both proposals have been circulated actively for several weeks. If they win sufficient signers, they will take their place on the ballots along with five other propositions — four of them constitutional amendments submitted by the legislature, and the other a proposal for a constitutional convention to rewrite the state's basic laws.

The proposed amendments already on the ballots are:

No. 1—Authorizing St. Louis county to vote a special property tax of not more than $1 on each $100 assessment for school purposes.

No. 2—Increasing the tax limit from 40 to 50 per cent per hundred dollars in counties having $6,000,000 to $10,000,000 property valuation.

No. 3—Increasing the pay of legislators to $125 a month the year around, instead of $5 a day while in session.

No. 4—Repealing the non-partisan court plan, adopted in 1940, under which supreme and appellate judges are appointed instead of elected.

The court plan repealer, the legislative payhiker and the constitutional convention question already have stirred dispute. But the arguments they cause may be drowned in the clamor likely to arise over the pension fund and the on-house legislature plans if they are submitted to the voters.

Longest Stay Away
Gov. Forrest C. Donnell's nine-day trip to the national governor's conference at Asheville, N. C., is his longest absence from the governor's office since his inauguration 16 months ago. It is only the third excursion out of the state for the executive, who seldom spends even a week-end away from the capital.

The only other times Donnell has called in Lieut. Gov. Frank Harris to act as governor were during one-day trips to the National Bar Association convention and to Governor's Day observances at the Great Lakes Naval training station. Donnell didn't even take a vacation last year.

Bond Forfeited
Edwin W. Price, Glasgow, arrested for being intoxicated, failed to appear in police court this morning and his bond of $5 was ordered forfeited by Magistrate C. W. Bente.

Fined For Traffic Violation
Sam Raskin, paid a $1 fine for not having his 1942-43 license sticker displayed on the windshield of his automobile.

Registration At Longwood

Registration for canning sugar will be held at Longwood in the postoffice from 10:00 a. m. to 4:00 p. m. on Saturday. Miss Mildred Raines has volunteered her services as registrar.

The local rationing board wishes to bring to the attention of the general public that Rationing Stamp No. 5, which becomes valid after June 27th, is good for two pounds of sugar and that Stamp No. 6 becomes valid August 22nd and is good for another two pounds of sugar. These stamps are good for a four week period instead of a two week period as stamps Number 1, 2, 3 and 4.

The following have volunteered to help with the registration at the court house today:

Miss Grace Sparr, Miss Etta Hurley, Miss Genevieve Stanley, Mrs. Frank Coffman.

Czech Village Razed By Nazis

LONDON, June 25.—(P)—The Czech community of Lesaty in Bohemia has been razed by the Nazis on the accusation that the villagers hid parachutists involved in the slaying of Reinhard Heydrich, "protector" of Bohemia-Moravia. It was reported today in a Budapest radio broadcast heard by a Czech government listener here.

For the death of Heydrich, the Germans have reported June 10 they had slain the male population of Lidice, near Prague, sent the women to concentration camps and the children to "educational" institutions.

About 350 men faced the firing squads in that village.

What happened to the Lesaty population was not disclosed by the Budapest broadcast, which quoted an official announcement in Prague newspapers.

The announcement charged the villagers with shielding from police the so-called "parachute agents" involved in the Heydrich plot.

Other phases of the purge of anti-Nazi Czechs continued. The Budapest radio said that 18 Czechs were sentenced to death at Prague yesterday and 12 at Brunn (Brno). The charges were not stated.

Mickey Harris Up From The Panama Canal

Home To Pitch For Service Stars In Cleveland July 7

By JUDSON BAILEY
NEW YORK, June 25—(P)—Tanned by the tropical sun and filled with tales of army life, Mickey Harris, former southpaw pitcher of the Boston Red Sox, is home from the Canal Zone to pitch for the service stars in the All-Star spectacle at Cleveland on July 7.

The 25-year-old baseball star now is a private in a coast artillery unit and a soldier in speech as well as appearance. He would rather tell you how the guardians of the Panama canal zone are pitching for a chance to fight than to talk about the perfect game he pitched last winter in the Canal Zone's baseball league.

Proud of Being Selected

But he obviously is proud of being selected on Lieut. Gordon (Mickey) Cochrane's army-navy squad and joyous over his 30-day furlough which has given him a few days at the home of his parents here before beginning his training at the Great Lakes Naval Station Sunday.

"I'm in good shape," he said today, "and I hope that I get to pitch a part of the All-Star game. When Mickey told me I would be on the squad he said he could not promise me I would get into the game, but I don't guess they would bring me all the way up from Panama for nothing."

"I think we've got a good chance of winning. Our team looks good to me with Feller and Rigney pitching and Greenburg and Travis and those other hitters. Played All Last Winter

"I played about twice a week during the winter and pitched a couple of one and two hitters besides the no hit game. I'd say the league was about a fast Class B circuit. The independent teams had some pretty good minor league stars from this country. But the season closed about a month ago and I haven't pitched since."

Harris said he had followed the fortunes of his Red Sox teammates through newspaper and radio accounts of the major leagues and that he was looking forward to resuming his career with Boston after the war.

"I don't figure it will be so hard to pick up where I left off," he explained, "except I will have to learn the hitters all over again. You know some fellows that I pitched outside to last year I may have to pitch inside to when I get back and that sort of thing."

Harris brought along the baseball uniform he wore for his coast artillery team and revealed that in the All-Star game each service man would play in the uniform of his army or navy unit.

Passeau And Walters Bid For Honors

Most Attention Given To Mort Cooper And Larry French

By JUDSON BAILEY
Associated Press Sports Writer
Those two hardy perennials, Claude Passeau and William (Lucky Bucky) Walters, are bidding strongly for the pitching leadership of the National League again.

This year most of the attention in the senior circuit has been given to Mort Cooper of the St. Louis Cardinals, with his five shutouts, and Lefty Larry French of the Brooklyn Dodgers, with his unmarred record of six victories and an earned run average of less than one per nine innings.

Make Plans Last Night
But Passeau and Walters made their claims heard anew last night with standout performances.

Passeau pitched a four-hitter for the Chicago Cubs to beat the Philadelphia Phils, 3-1, and attain his 11th victory, the most games any pitcher in the major leagues has won.

He has accounted for exactly one third of all the victories the second-division Bruins have scored this season.

Walters, like Passeau, hasn't had much help from his teammates, with Cincinnati ranking last in the league in both batting and fielding, yet last night he scored his eighth success against five setbacks by holding the New York Giants to six hits over ten innings to lead the Reds to a 4-3 decision in a twilight tussle.

He had a duel all the way with Hal Schumacher. A two-run homer by Frank McCormick tied the score in the eighth inning and another roundtripper by Rookie Bert Haas in the overtime stanza settled the issue.

Double Defeat For Cards

The Reds' triumph coincided with a double defeat for the St. Louis Cardinals to close the gap between second and third place to a single game.

The Redbirds were beaten 6-2 and 3-1 at Boston by the Braves yesterday as Jim Tobin and Rookie Willard Donovan turned in two nice pitching jobs. Tobin was tapped for 11 hits, but kept them spaced and collected his first victory since May 13. Donovan allowed only five hits in gaining his first major league triumph.

In the American League the New York Yankees captured their second straight decision over the St. Louis Browns, 6-4, with Joe DiMaggio, Charley Keller and Tom Henrich each getting two hits. The champions, out-hit 15-12, made up for this deficiency with four double plays, running their total to 92 for 64 games.

Wagner Has 1-0 Victory

Broadway Charley Wagner came up with his second 1-0 victory in a row as the Boston Red Sox stopped the Detroit Tigers on his three-hit hurling. Wagner's previous victory was the celebrated 1-0 defeat of Edgar Smith and the Chicago White Sox on Dom DiMaggio's inside-the-park home run. Yesterday's win also came on a home run, this one Ted Williams' 17th of the season and second in two days.

Lefty Al Milnar, who has been struggling with little success all season, organized a five-hit 9-0 shutout of the Philadelphia Athletics for the Cleveland Indians. He had the backing of a 15-hit attack on three Philadelphia hurlers, getting a home run himself along with Les Fleming's eighth circuit clout.

John Humphries shut out the Washington Senators, 6-0 for the Chicago White Sox. Catcher Tom Turner assisted with a grand slam home run.

Sports Roundup

By HUGH FULLERTON, JR.

Wide World Sports Columnist

NEW YORK, June 25—Fats Henry, who was only an all-American lineman 23 years ago more recently athletic director at Washington and Jefferson college will attend the eastern Pennsylvania interscholastic football coaches' clinic as one of the students. . . . He figures he needs a "refresher" course since he'll coach the football team this season. . . . This brings up the point that a lot of old timers will be back in harness since the younger fellows are going into the armed forces. Maybe next fall's games will feature the flying wedge and the old fashioned "T" formation.

Retreading Their Path

Back in 1934 the federal government turned over several obsolete World War ambulances to the Iowa State College athletic council. . . . After some remodeling, which included new wheels and tires, they were used as trucks around the athletic plant. . . . Last week, eight years after the gift was made, Athletic Director George Veenker located eight of the old-style tires in a storehouse and donated the 320 lbs. of rubber to the salvage drive.

Service Dept.

Mason "Bunky" Brunson, AP sport scribe in Baltimore, is a newcomer to the marines' Parris Island, S. C., headquarters. . . . Walter Ziegenbein, pharmacist at Camp Callan, Calif., literally gave his right arm for the camp's ball team the other day. He put everything he had into a pitch and the result was a broken arm. . . . Entry list for the naval air station's invitation track meet at Corpus Christi, Tex., Saturday included Indiana's Campbell Kane; Pete Watkins, Sparky Ricks and Ken Stallings of Texas A. & M.; Pete Owens, the Howard Payne U. sprinter, and teams from Texas, Butler and other colleges as well as Bob Sagan, Boyce Gatewood, Dave Rankin and George Franck, representing the air station. . . . Corp. Marvin (Bud) Ward, national amateur golf champion, reports the golf course at Fort Lewis, Wash., where he is stationed, is laid out as well as any in the Pacific northwest.

Today's Guest Star

Jim Reed, Burlington (Ia) Hawk-Eye Gazette: "Too many

beanings, both in the army and baseball, will make a man plucky."

Orders Is Orders

At the Price Georges golf club, near Washington, they tell about the rookie caddy who was told to "take the pin" as a foursome came up to a green. . . . Going down the next fairway, one of the players noticed a long bamboo pole with a red flag protruding from the bag the kid was toting. . . . "What's the idea?" he demanded. . . . "You told me to take the pin," came the reply. "I took it."

Red Cross Join War Fund Drive

WASHINGTON, June 25—(P)—The Red Cross has postponed its usual November roll call and has combined it with a war fund drive to be conducted in March, 1943, Chairman Norman H. Davis announced Wednesday.

The action had the full approval of President Roosevelt, who wrote Davis that "the nation can look forward to the month of March, 1943, as Red Cross month."

Davis said the decision to make a combined drive followed requests that the Red Cross reconsider its policy of not partici-

Old Jim Gore used to say:
"Try to do a perfect job.. and you'll do a good job"

As a young man in the West of the 1850's, Jim Gore learned that striving for perfection was a good policy. When he came East and entered the liquor business, he brought this policy with him. That's why the famous Kentucky bourbon he originated was rightly called "Old Jim Gore—Best in the World".

Old Jim Gore Bourbon is back on the market today, after years of careful preparation to exactly duplicate the original 3-point formula laid down by Old Jim, himself:

- 1 "Must be genuine Kentucky sour mash bourbon."
- 2 "Must be made with plenty of costly, small grain—for richer flavor."
- 3 "Must be slowly distilled . . . carefully aged . . . to make it extra light."

You are going to enjoy the experience of meeting Old Jim Gore. Do it today — and you'll be glad that honest Jim Gore insisted on perfection in the whisky that bears his name.

New Time System At Camp Crowder

CAMP CROWDER, Mo., June 25.—(AP)—The 24-hour clock system will be adopted at this army post, along with all U. S. army organizations, at 4 a. m. Greenwich civil time, July 1.
Time will be expressed in a group of four digits ranging from 0000 to 2400. The first two digits on the left will be the hours after midnight and the remaining two digits will indicate the minutes past the hour. Where the hour can be expressed by a single digit, it will be preceded by zero—for example, 0625 for 6:25 a. m.
The date may be expressed in either of two ways.
For the current month, the date may be indicated by preceding the four-digit time-group with a two-figure date group indicating the day of the month. For example, 060600 is the sixth day of the month and the time is 6 a. m. Or the date may be used after the four-digit time group thus—0625 May 4, 1942.

Failed To Tell Of Heroism On His Own Part

Newsman On The Lexington Helped In Rescue Work

LOS ANGELES, June 25.—(AP)—Newsman Stanley Johnston did a fine job of reporting the battle of the Coral sea, says one of his shipmates aboard the U. S. S. Lexington, but neglected to tell the heroic part he himself played in the final hours of the big aircraft carrier.
Lt. Cmdr. Weldon O. Hamilton, squadron leader who first sighted the Japanese carrier Ryukaku and planted the first heavy bomb in the middle of its broad flight deck, reported Wednesday that Johnston, Chicago Tribune correspondent and only reporter aboard, was one of the real heroes of the Lexington. The commander's own part in the battle was sidetracked in an interview until he told of the newsman's extraordinary activities.
"Johnston never did rescue the notes and news diaries he was worrying so much about," Hamilton recalled. "When I got back to the Lexington she was badly crippled by torpedoes and bombs. One of the first men I saw was Johnston. I told him briefly of the action as I had seen it."
Lugs Wounded Seamen
"Soon it became apparent the Lexington was in a bad way and Johnston went below decks for his papers and personal effects. He came up a little later, but didn't have any diaries. He was lugging a badly wounded seaman. He dashed down again, still after his notes. Pretty soon he returned, carrying another injured man."
"I don't know how many times he repeated the performance. Every time he insisted he was going after his stuff, and every time he came back with a wounded or burned sailor. He risked his life time and again."
When orders came to abandon ship, the flight command was told to go aboard a nearby destroyer, along with the wounded. The rest of the crew was to go overseas later.
"Johnston asked what he was supposed to do," Hamilton chuckled. "I told him to cable his editor for instructions."
What Johnston actually did, Hamilton said, was to go overseas with the last remaining seamen, and swim to the destroyer through an oil-coated, choppy sea.
Hamilton, leading one of four squadrons in the attack on the Ryukaku, had binoculars and was first to sight the 23,000-ton carrier. He planted a heavy bomb on its flight deck. Torpedoed planes attacked at the same time, and the carrier soon sank.

Russia Praises U. S. And Britain

LONDON, June 25.—(AP)—The Soviet embassy mentioned the imminence of a second allied front in Europe twice today in articles in praise of the United States and Britain in its publication, Soviet War News.
The article lauding the United States said:
"Five years ago Americans hissed fascism in their cinemas. Today they express their hatred more eloquently—by producing arms at unprecedented speed, by their determination to open a second front in Europe in 1942."
Praising Britain, another article declared:
"The raids on the Ruhr and Cologne were mere preparation, of course. Soon smoke from the funnels of transports will drift toward the French shores. Already French children gaze hopefully across the misty sea whispering 'What sort of ship is that on the horizon?' The name of that ship is 'Second Front.'"

New Tax Bill Is Completed

Committee In Belief It Would Raise $5,924,000,000

By DONALD A. YOUNG
WASHINGTON, June 25.—(AP)—A new tax bill designed to yield $5,924,000,000 additional revenue was completed by the house ways and means committee Wednesday with most of the administration's major recommendations crumpled in the waste basket.
The treasury had asked for $8,700,000,000—to help finance the war and to combat inflation by reducing the public's spending money. In fact, President Roosevelt had suggested definite limitations through taxes on the income of individuals and corporations.
As the committee completed the study it began March 3, it reversed a previous stand and defeated still another recommendation of Secretary Morgenthau—that married persons be required to file joint income tax returns.
Although the bill was about $2,800,000,000 short of the treasury's goal, the measure did not impose a general sales tax, advocated by many committee members but opposed by the President and Morgenthau on the ground that it would fall disproportionately on low income groups.
Morgenthau told the committee that even if it raised as much as $7,000,000,000 in new revenue and another $2,000,000,000 in social security taxes—as the President recommended—it would be necessary to borrow at least $39,000,000,000 in the fiscal year which begins July 1. Appropriations approved by congress are approaching the $90,000,000,000 mark thus far this year.

Subject To Review
While the committee's decisions are subject to review later when the hundreds of pages of technical language are finally prepared, it was expected that the house might pass the bill and send it to the senate by July 20. There was cloakroom conversation on the possibility that the senate might accept the house bill speedily, with few changes, with the prospect that supplemental legislation might be considered in the fall.
The committee built its bill around drastically-increased individual and corporation levies.
It lowered personal exemptions for individuals from $1,500 to $1,200 in the case of a married man, raised the normal tax from 4 to 6 per cent and boosted the lowest surtax rate from 6 to 12 per cent. To help collect this estimated $2,730,000,000 increase in individual taxes, the committee adopted a treasury proposal to collect part of most persons' taxes by payroll deduction, starting in January.
A record-breaking, flat 94 per cent excess profits tax on corporations was substituted for the present graduated scale ranging from 35 to 60 per cent, and the normal and surtax rates applicable to income not subject to excess profits taxes were raised from 31 to 40 per cent in the case of a corporation with income over $25,000.

Excise taxes on such things as train fares, cigarettes, whiskey and telephone tolls were increased and some excises levied.
The committee provided an administration-sponsored post-war refund for corporations which pay the 94 per cent excess profits tax. Since new funds will have to be raised to redeem the post-war credit bonds, the net yield of the bill might be considered as $5,047,300,000.
